Horace Bushman Killed In Action Near Cherbourg

Corporal Horace Mann Bushman, 27, first Gettysburgian to give his life in the invasion of France, was killed in action near Cherbourg, his wife learned Saturday afternoon in a letter she received from his commanding officer.

Corporal Bushman, familiarly known as "Bush" to a host of friends, was employed in the shop of The Gettysburg Times as a pressman for four years before he entered military service October 19, 1942. He was the son of Rufus H. Bushman, North Stratton street.

Writing to offer "sincerest sympathy" and to tell her "what a fine soldier he was," Capt. John Hinkle, commander of the field artillery battery to which "Bush" was attached, disclosed that "Bush" was killed instantly by enemy artillery fire. The date of his death was not stated.

Buried On French Soil

The captain's letter reported that the young field artillery corporal was buried in a military cemetery in France where a service was held. Later Battery A held a service of its own for "Bush" who was a great favorite among his fellow soldiers as he had been at The Times office and among his wide circle of friends in his home town.

Mrs. Bushman, who resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Durboraw, along the Taneytown road a mile south of town, has not yet received official notification from the War Department of her husband's death.

When the War Department message comes, it likely will give the date. Now it is known only that he was killed between June 11 and the date he wrote the last letter. Mrs. Bushman received from him, on July 9, the date on Captain Hinkle's letter which was penned from "somewhere in France." Mrs. Bushman received that last letter from her husband June 27. It had been written in England.

With 18th Division

"Bush" served with the 73d Division which was in the thick of the terrific battle for the port of Cherbourg.

He was home last for a 10-day furlough early in February and went overseas in April, landing in England where he remained until he entered France to help crack the vaunted Atlantic wall of the Nazis.

Captain Hinkle, who indicated in the first words of his letter that he expected that the War Department already had given notice of his corporal's death, referred to the Gettysburg man as "Bush" throughout the letter and called him "one of my best friends."

He wrote: "He was always a cheerful and courageous companion on any mission, ever ready to do more than his share at any job we had to do."

Killed By Shell

"We were close together when he was killed and I can assure you there was no suffering or pain."

He recounted a conversation he and "Bush" held "on the heights above Cherbourg" and continued: "Later in the evening an artillery shell struck trees above us and he was hit."

He was buried in a military cemetery where a service was held and later we had a service here in the Battery for him.

"You lost a very wonderful husband and we a fine, loyal friend."

"Bush's death has given each of us in Battery A a deeper and firmer resolution to do all we can to win this war and bring defeat to the enemy who robbed us," he concluded.

"Bush" would have observed his twenty-eighth birthday on August 6. He was the son of Rufus H. Bushman and the late Hattie (McClellan) Bushman.

He was graduated from the Gettysburg high school in 1935 and in his student days there starred as a varsity member of football, basketball and baseball teams.

On March 14, 1942, he and Miss Merion Durboraw were united in marriage in Hagerstown, Md.

"Bush" was an active member of the Gettysburg fire company for a number of years and was a member of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church and the Gettysburg Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Surviving him are his widow, a father and step-mother, an older brother, George L. Bushman, an employee at the Gettysburg postoffice, and a half-brother, Charles, North Stratton street.

He had taken his basic Army training at Camp Blanding, Florida, and later took part in Army maneuvers in Tennessee and Alabama. Then he went to Arizona for desert maneuvers after which he was sent to Camp Phillips, Kansas. From there he went to a port of embarkation and England.

"Bush"

Twenty-two months ago Horace Mann "Bush" Bushman was a pressman for The Gettysburg Times. Today, a soldier hero, he sleeps in a freshly dug grave in a newly dedicated American cemetery on the plains near Cherbourg, France. A small white cross, plainly inscribed with his name, the organization he served with and the date of his death, stretches majestically skyward, a symbol of American loyalty, faith and supreme sacrifice.

"Bush" was a typical American. He fumed about the war in Europe and he ranted and raved when the Japs executed their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. He was anxious to get into the scrap. But on his first call to service he was rejected for a minor ailment. Undaunted, however, he returned to his job at The Times, a job he loved with all the enthusiasm he possessed. He said "I'll make it yet." And he did.

"Bush" had the minor ailment corrected and soon he was off to the wars. He must have had a premonition of the supreme sacrifice that he was to make. He told us a few days before leaving: "I may not be back but before I go I want someone else to pay plenty for it."

That he served honorably and well is evidenced from the letter his commanding officer wrote his widow. He was as popular with his soldier-buddies as he was with his fellow associates at The Times. His job here was not a pushover. His job in service wasn't a push-over either. "Bush" would want it just that way.

He was big and tall and strong and he loved a rugged life. He worked hard at a hard job and we know that he worked hard with his battery. He never asked for easy assignments. He went down fighting to the very last. And if "Bush" had to make the supreme sacrifice we know that he made it the way he wanted to... fighting.

"Bush" was like that.

VIEWERS FILE DAMAGE CLAIMS IN COURT HERE

Viewers' reports in two damage claim cases were filed and a court opinion was handed down in a brief session of court in judicial chambers on Saturday.

Viewers awarded $1,999 damages to Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Kline, Cumberland township, for the use of 239 square feet of their property for road purposes in the relocation of the Gettysburg-Littlestown highway a mile south of here two years ago.

In a similar report the same board gave Mr. and Mrs. Curtis H. Kline, owners of an adjoining property, $900 for 369 square feet of land appropriated for highway purposes together with resulting loss of value to the property.

Refuses New Trial

The reports were filed by this court-appointed board of viewers.

Franklin R. Bigham, Esq., LeRoy H. Winebrenner and E. W. Wright.

Both reports were given preliminary approval and were listed for final confirmation in 30 days unless exceptions are filed.

After their appointment more than six months ago the members of the board viewed the properties and conducted public hearings in the two claims before deciding on the amount of damages to be awarded.

In a three-page opinion handed down in the assumption action by Albert O. and Maria Beck of Chicago, against Elmer L. and Freda Lucille Stanley, Reading township, it was tried here in April, court Judge W. C. Sheely refused a petition for a new trial and for a judgment in favor of the defendants notwithstanding the jury's verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. The court further directed that judgment is to be entered on the record of the jury's decision upon payment of the jury's peach and apple market outlook.

The growers also will hear an explanation of shipping requirements for fruit under Japanese beetle regulations.

Secretary Horst is to speak on

Arrive Overseas

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Miller, of Unruhsville R. D. 1, have received word their son, Sgt. Frank R. Miller, has arrived safely in England.

Rev. Mr. Gresh, in his sermon, said in part:

"There is no glory in war. Ask a young doctor if he does not agree.

"Ask the fathers and mothers who must see their sons go into action against Hitler without being sure that even after Hitler has been conquered that the philosophy of Hitlerism will have been crushed.

"The young men and women, whose names are on this roll of honor were brought up to hate war."

None of them believed in war as a desirable thing and many of them were taught to believe that under no circumstances should they ever go to war. And yet here they are serving in the armed forces, at infinite cost to themselves, facing every danger and making every sacrifice, not because they believe in war but because they believe in truth, honor, justice and hope, by their all-out effort once and for all.

RAISE POINTS ON CREAMERY BUTTER TODAY

Washington, July 24 (AP) — Housewives pay four more ration points for each pound of creamery butter today, to meet a new ration value of 6 points set by the Office of Price Administration because of increased civilian consumption.

The increased ration value, effective yesterday, does not affect farm and processed butter. They continue at eight and four red points a pound, respectively. Consumption of creamery butter, OPA said, has been running 20 per cent over the July allocation for the year.

OPA also set price ceilings under which most wartime-produced butter will retail for ten to fifteen cents a pound lower than prevailing prices. Domestic Vodka will cost about 35 cents less. The schedule will be made effective soon.

Tighten Gasoline

The agency said that beginning August 1, ration boards will not issue full supplemental gasoline rations for driving between home and work to motorists who fail to organize full-car clubs.

The Senate Committee on fuel oil shortages, meanwhile, issued a report that there can be no increase in civilian supplies of gasoline and fuel oil until requirements for military purposes are decreased.

The committee said that by careful handling of oil supplies, mild weather, and higher coal production, the country will barely get through next winter without suffering.

The War Food administration issued a statement giving assurance that shell eggs purchased this year for producer price support purposes will not be dumped on the domestic market. The agency has purchased about 10,500 carloads and disposed of about 3,500 carloads for school lunch, hospital and other institutional users, to driers and freezers and for other purposes.

HITLER PURGE SAVES ALLIES BLOOD ORDEAL

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst
Hitler seems to have held his home-front fairly steady thus far in face of the rebellion by the Prussian high command, but we need feel no great disappointment over that since our main interest really lies in the military aspect of the situation—and things are coming our way fast.

Of course it would be a matter of vast rejoicing if civilian Germany should bring a quick end to the war by deserting the gangster whom British Prime Minister yesterday labeled with an appropriate name which the newspaper boys delicately euphemized into "bouned." However, the belief is widespread among statesmen and military men that we shall get a more lasting peace if we achieve it through a crushing defeat of Germany's armed might on the battlefield. We've had one experience of letting Prussian militarism save its skin by yielding "Kamerad."

Germany Weakening

Whatever way you look at it, we have the satisfaction of knowing that, as Churchill told the troops in Normandy yesterday, "there are grave signs of weakness" in the Reich and the war "might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say." The enemy's "central power is crumbling."

Hitler's blood purge, which is reported to have liquidated some of the greatest of the Prussian high command, and a host of lesser officers who supported them, is costing a grand two-fold job for the Allies:

1. It's saving us the post-war trouble of removing these keystones of militarism from circulation permanently.

2. It's knocking out Germany's best military brains and thus is vastly simplifying our task of smashing the Reich's military machine in the field.

No Replacements

These Prussian war-lords represent near perfection in military expertise. It has been bred into them through generations in which the powerful Junker class has provided the high command of the German army. Hitler may pride himself on his own military inculcation, but he neither can compete with the highly trained professionals whom he is purging, nor can he replace them with his supporters among the less experienced generals.

We are witnessing the effects of the rebellion and the purge in the German disaster on the Russian front where the Red armies continue to tear through the retreating Hitlerites with almost unbelievable speed. Hitler himself invited this catastrophe months ago by refusing to listen to the counsel of his high command that the German front be pulled back and shortened. That produced the revolt which has deprived him of his best military talent.

Leaders Want Peace

Probably it would be more accurate to say that his attitude hastened the arrival of a rebellion which was almost inevitable in the long run. Hitler long had known that if it became obvious Germany was beaten, the Prussian war-lords would insist on surrender to avoid disastrous defeat. If he didn't agree, it would mean a revolt.

That's what happened in the last war. The Prussians declined to fight to the end and sought a peace which would give them a chance to prepare for another war. It was with this in mind that Hitler created the great hand-picked army of fanatical Nazis who now are purging Germany under command of bloody-handed Gestapo chief Himmler.

I think the fighting front will give us the best day-by-day gauge of the effects of the revolt.

SAY GOODBYE TO SLEEPING CARS OF PRESENT DAY

By JAMES MARLOW

Chicago, July 24 (AP)—You can say goodbye to the old style sleeping car—the pullman with the upper and lower berths and the curtain on the aisle.

It's heading for the same limbo that swallowed the stage-coach.

The Pullman company is not going to make any more. When the 6,500 old-style sleepers now in use wear out, that's about the end of them.

The railroads know they face a life and death struggle with motor buses and airplanes after the war to keep travelers riding the rails.

To meet this competition the railroads will have to keep their rates low and make trains traveling a lot more attractive than it ever has been.

Must Improve Trains

These are some of the plans the Pullman people have in mind:

Fairly fancy traveling berths to sell for $1 a night in a new style sleeper.

A new and better way of handling luggage.

Better washroom facilities.

New, high capacity commuter cars. There may be changes in the way the whole operation is done and for these reasons:

There are two pullman outfits: The Pullman company, which operates and services cars; and the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, which actually builds the cars.

Foresee Roomettes

Recently the Philadelphia Federal District Court ordered the parent-Pullman company to dispose of one of its properties. The directors chose to retain the manufacturing company and let the Pullman company go.

It's likely that the Pullman company will be perpetuated under the same name by new owners. Thus the Pullman company is in the position of ordering sleeping cars built. The manufacturing company does the building.

The trend is toward single and duplex roomettes—sleeping car compartments with private wash basins, toilets and a door that closes off the rest of the car. Besides that, these roomettes will be airconditioned.

Damage estimated at about $650 was caused early Sunday afternoon when three cars were involved in a double collision on the New Chester road about a mile north of New Oxford. No one was injured but Private George Ackerson of the state police here said he will charge Conway Dettinburg, New Oxford, R. 2, with reckless driving.

The officer's investigation showed that Dettinburg was driving south when his machine struck the rear of the car of Eugene R. Kline, New Oxford, R. 1, which had stopped near a parked machine to let a machine pass from the opposite direction.

The first impact pushed Kline's car against the parked machine which was owned by B. F. Aumen, Jr., New Oxford, R. 1.

The charge will be filed before Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorf, Oxford township.

Services were conducted at 1:30 o'clock at the Routsong-Dugan funeral home in Bendersville with further services in the Bendersville Methodist church. The Rev. George W. Harrison, pastor of the church of which the accident victim was a member, officiated. Interment was made in the Bendersville cemetery.

Six members of the Eagle Patrol of Boy Scouts No. 72, of Bendersville, of which Billy McCauslin was a member, served as pallbearers.

They were James Bucher, Albert Bucher, Edward Rothenhoefer and Charles House, Lee Reinecker and Albert Hoffman, Jr.

He entered service in the Navy on August 1, 1943, two months after graduating from Gettysburg high school. After completing training courses in California and Great Lakes Naval base, he was transferred to amphibious duty in the Marine Corps.

In addition to producing jumpers, parachute specialist training is given to qualified men in communication, demolition, riggers and sewing machine maintenance, vital skills for airborne troops.

Receiving their first word in 43 days from their son, William T. Shryock, serving with the Marines in the Pacific, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shryock, 34 East Stevens street, learned today that the young hospital attendant, first class, took part in the invasion of the island of Iwo Jima.

Jumping at the parachute school has been steadily developed to a recognized war science. There is less than one per cent chance of injury while jumping at the school.

Work Together

"Certainly in this grim hour we must be good patriots. We must work and pray for victory. These young men who have gone into the service from our community, as well as every other American community, are facing the most brutal form of killing Nazism has been able to devise. They are pitted against a military machine that has always glorified in war. It is time for all of us to be good Americans to end war and win the four freedoms and establish a cooperative world order.

HITLER PURGE SAVES ALLIES BLOOD ORDEAL

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler seems to have held his home-front fairly steady thus far in face of the rebellion by the Prussian high command, but we need feel no great disappointment over that since our main interest really lies in the military aspect of the situation—and things are coming our way fast.

Of course it would be a matter of vast rejoicing if civilian Germany should bring a quick ending to the war by deserting the gangster whom British Prime Minister yesterday labeled with an appropriate name which the newspaper boys delicately euphemized into "bounder." However, the belief is widespread among statesmen and military men that we shall get a more lasting peace if we achieve it through a crushing defeat of Germany's armed might on the battlefield. We've had one experience of letting Prussian militarism save its skin by yelling "Kamerad."

Germany Weakening

Whichever way you look at it, we have the satisfaction of knowing that, as Churchill told the troops in Normandy yesterday, "there are grave signs of weakness" in the Reich and the war "might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say." The enemy's "central power is crumbling."

Hitler's blood purge, which is reported to have liquidated some of the greatest of the Prussian high command, and a host of lesser officers who supported them, is doing a grand two-fold job for the Allies:

1. It's saving us the post-war trouble of removing these keystones of militarism from circulation permanently.

2. It's knocking out Germany's best military brains and thus is vastly simplifying our task of smashing the Reich's military machine in the field.

No Replacements

These Prussian war-lords represent near perfection in military expertness. It has been bred into them through generations in which the powerful Junker class has provided the high command of the German army. Hitler may pride himself on his own military intuition but he neither can compete with the highly trained professional whom he is purging, nor can he replace them with his supporters among the less experienced generals.

We are witnessing the effects of the rebellion and the purge in the German disaster on the Russian front where the Red armies continue to tear through the retreating Hitlerites with almost unbelievable speed. Hitler himself invited this catastrophe months ago by refusing to listen to the counsel of his high command that the German front be pulled back and shortened. That produced the revolt which has deprived him of his best military talent.

Leaders Want Peace

Probably it would be more accurate to say that his attitude hastened the arrival of a rebellion which was almost inevitable in the long run. Hitler long had known that if it became obvious Germany was beaten, the Prussian war-lords would insist on surrender to avoid disastrous defeat. If he didn't agree, it would mean a revolt.

That's what happened in the last war. The Prussians declined to fight to the end and sought a peace which would give them a chance to prepare for another war. It was with this in mind that Hitler created the great, hand-picked army of fanatical Nazis who now are purging Germany under command of bloody-handed Gestapo chief Himmler.

I think the fighting fronts will give us the best day-by-day gauge of the effects of the revolt.

KIEL BLASTED WITH 2,800 TONS OF DESTRUCTION

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
London, July 24 (AP)—A great fleet of RAF bombers unloaded well over 2,800 tons of high explosives on the German Naval base of Kiel last night as Allied warplanes pounded Europe from the Baltic to Bucharest.

The German radio said heavy attacks against the Reich were developing again today.

The Germans reported enemy fighter planes from Italy might be joining in the attack.

Five separate bomber forces were sent out from Britain last night by the RAF. The largest rained destruction on Kiel at the rate of 150 tons of bombs per minute. Other heavyweights bombed two large oil storage depots at Donges, near St. Nazaire, in an effort to reduce further the enemy's dwindling fuel supplies, and another force hit Berlin flying bomb sites in northern France.

Berlin Attacked

At the same time squadrons of RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin with 4,000-pound blockbusters for the 13th time since D-day and formations of these speedy, all-purpose planes also provided overnight support for Allied ground forces in Normandy by pounding enemy troop movements in the Rouen and Amiens districts.

Mediterranean-based Allied heavy bombers, meanwhile, struck an oil refinery at Berat in Albania by daylight yesterday, and last night blasted military targets at Bucharest.

The Germans put up a thick anti-aircraft barrage over Kiel, in whose shipyards much of the German fleet was built. Despite dense clouds, aerial crewmen said they saw many large fires glowing. Some reported a "colossal" explosion lasting five or six seconds, possibly a direct hit on a Naval arsenal.

Cries From Berlin

Berlin called the Kiel raid "heavy terror attack."

Weather over Normandy remained spotty in the forenoon, with visibility restricted to two miles and the ceiling between 4,000 and 6,000 feet, but this was a slight improvement over yesterday, described as the first "useful" day for air support in nearly a week.

Tactical units flew 1,800 sorties yesterday, and American Fortresses and Liberators returned to strategic operations after a one-day lay-off, bombing four air fields north and east of Paris.

POLITICAL UNITS IN STATE BUSY WITH CAMPAIGNS

By L. U. LESLIE

Harrisburg, July 24 (AP)—The national conventions over, the next big job ahead of the Republican and Democratic organizations in Pennsylvania is to tune the state campaign to the national ticket through drafting of party platforms.

The Republican State committee already has called its platform-adopting meeting for Pittsburgh on September 9 and the Democratic State committee probably will meet in Harrisburg early in that month also, in line with the plan of conducting a short campaign.

Whether a State treasury surplus that may reach $175,000,000 by the end of the 1944-45 biennium should be reflected in a state tax reduction or be earmarked for post-war work, or both, is a top subject for possible inclusion in the party platforms.

Others include plans for returning service men and women, post-war planning generally, stream pollution, and party promises to industry, labor and farmers.

Two Meetings Coming

Of immediate interest, however, are two political meetings within the next ten days, the organization meeting of the Pennsylvania citizens Political Action committee here Saturday and conference of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee, with Pennsylvania Republican leaders at Pittsburgh on July 31.

The meeting of all CIO unions in Pennsylvania to set up officially the Pennsylvania Citizens Political Action committee as the successor to the State CIO Political Action committee was called by John A. Phillips, the temporary chairman, who is also president of the Pennsylvania Industrial Union council, the state CIO organization.

The new state setup is being organized to conform to the change-over of the national organization, headed by Sidney Hillman to campaign for re-election of President Roosevelt. Phillips was an alternate delegate from Pennsylvania at the Democratic National convention.

CONGRESSIONAL ACTION ON FUND TO BE DELAYED

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 24 (AP)—Congressional action on the proposed international monetary fund and world bank for reconstruction is likely to be delayed until the new Congress meets next January, an informed source said today.

As the last of the delegates to the United Nations monetary conference departed from this White Mountain resort, it was pointed out that although quick action on the two plans is desirable it will be virtually impossible to bring the matter before the present congress this year.

Although congress is scheduled to reconvene late in August, the lawmakers are expected to be in recess most of the time because of the political campaign.

Dramatic
The capital for the world bank for reconstruction and development was given a $300,000,000 boost late Saturday night when Secretary of the Treasury, Morgenthau, announced the Soviet Union had decided to raise its quota from $900,000 to $1,200,000, bringing the total to $9,100,000,000.

For days the Soviets held out for the lower quota, but at the last minute came through with its dramatic decision which brought cheers from the conference delegates.

The United States will contribute $3,175,000,000 to the bank, whose principal purpose is to make reconstruction and development loans after the war and to guarantee loans of private investors.

99-Year-Old Civil War Veteran Dies

Leonia, N. J., July 24 (AP)—James Ford, 99, a drummer boy with the Union Army during the Civil War, died yesterday at his home, 309 Elm street, less than a week after the death of his wife whom he married 67 years ago.

He has no known survivors.

After the Civil War, Ford went to California in search for gold, and upon his return became superintendent of pages on the New York stock exchange. He retired in 1926 after 45 years' service.

Ford, a native of New York, was a member of General Meade Post 33, Grand Army of the Republic, which merged with L. M. Hamilton Post 152, of New York.

NEW LOW FOR RELIEF
Harrisburg, July 24 (AP)—A new low for relief expenditures in Pennsylvania was established during June when the department of public assistance only paid out $4,293,000 as compared to $12,350,000 during the peak month of August, 1939. The state now has 213,228 persons on relief rolls.

Absent Captains May Go To Congress

Dallas, Tex., July 24 (AP)—Two Army captains overseas are furnishing most of the excitement in the Texas Democratic primary elections.

One of the captains has defeated Rep. Richard Kleberg, and the other is running Rep. Lindley Beckworth in a close race.

In other races, ten Texas congressmen were renominated in Saturday's voting and at least two runoff for congressional seats were indicated in latest returns from the Texas election bureau.

Capt. John Lyle, a mobile anti-aircraft officer in Italy, whose friends placed his name on the congressional ticket, evidently was winner over Kleberg, member of the King ranch family. When the election bureau stopped tabulating votes in the contest early yesterday afternoon, Capt. Lyle's count was 19,121 as against 11,836 for Kleberg.

Capt. D. S. Meredith, Jr., with the Army's judge advocate general's department in the South Pacific, was pushing Beckworth in district 3; Meredith was backed by a team of ten East Texas political leaders and attorneys who stumped the district in his behalf under the direction of Mrs. Meredith. Latest returns gave Beckworth 20,892 votes, Meredith, 17,336 and E. A. Martin, Longview, third man in the race, 2,718.

KIEL BLASTED WITH 2,800 TONS OF DESTRUCTION

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

London, July 24 (AP) — A great fleet of RAF bombers unloaded well over 2,800 tons of high explosives on the German Naval base of Kiel last night as Allied warplanes pounded Europe from the Baltic to Bucharest.

The German radio said heavy attacks against the Reich were developing again today.

The Germans reported enemy fighter planes from Italy might be joining in the attack.

Five separate bomber forces were sent out from Britain last night by the RAF. The largest rained destruction on Kiel at the rate of 150 tons of bombs per minute. Other heavyweights bombed two large oil storage depots at Dongo, near St. Nazaire, in an effort to reduce further the enemy's dwindling fuel supplies, and another force hit Berlin flying bomb sites in northern France.

Berlin Attacked

At the same time squadrons of RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin with 4,000-pound blockbusters for the 13th time since D-day and formations of these speedy, all-purpose planes also provided overnight support for Allied ground forces in Normandy by pounding enemy troop movements in the Rouen and Amiens districts.

Mediterranean-based Allied heavy bombers, meanwhile, struck an oil refinery at Berat in Albania by daylight yesterday, and last night blasted military targets at Bucharest.

The Germans put up a thick anti-aircraft barrage over Kiel, in whose shipyards much of the German fleet was built. Despite dense clouds, aerial crewmen said they saw many large fires glowing. Some reported a "colossal" explosion lasting five or six seconds, possibly a direct hit on a Naval arsenal.

Cries From Berlin

Berlin called the Kiel raid "a heavy terror attack."

Weather over Normandy remained spotty in the forenoon, with visibility restricted to two miles and the ceiling between 4,000 and 6,000 feet, but this was a slight improvement over yesterday, described as the first "useful" day for air support in nearly a week.

Tactical units flew 1,600 sorties yesterday, and American Fortresses and Liberators returned to strategic operations after a one-day lay-off, bombing four air fields north and east of Paris.

POLITICAL UNITS IN STATE BUSY WITH CAMPAIGNS

By L. U. LESLIE

Harrisburg, July 24 (AP) — The national conventions over, the next big job ahead of the Republican and Democratic organizations in Pennsylvania is to tune the state campaign to the national tickets through drafting of party platforms.

The Republican State committee already has called its platform-adopting meeting for Pittsburgh on September 9 and the Democratic State committee probably will meet in Harrisburg early in that month also, in line with the plan of conducting a short campaign.

Whether a State treasury surplus that may reach $175,000,000 by the end of the 1944-45 biennium should be reflected in a state tax reduction or be earmarked for post-war work, or both, is a top subject for possible inclusion in the party platforms.

Others include plans for returning service men and women, post-war planning generally, stream pollution, and party promises to industry, labor and farmers.

Two Meetings Coming

Of immediate interest, however, are two political meetings within the next ten days, the organization meeting of the Pennsylvania citizens Political Action committee here Saturday and a conference of Governor Thomas E. YANKS SCORE NEW GAINS ON ITALIAN FRONT

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Rome, July 24 (AP)—Americans of the Fifth Army held the southern district of historic Pisa today while other forces wiped out virtually all enemy positions on the southern banks of the Arno river from the sea to near Empoli, and additional columns pushed north from Poggibonsi to within 12 miles of Florence.

Week-end operations established the Fifth Army firmly along the Nazi Gothic line water barrier to a point less than 20 airline miles from Florence.

Advance elements crossed the Arno canal and occupied Cascina, 10 miles east of Pisa.

Take Other Towns

Latest official reports said the Americans had not crossed the Arno at Pisa, but held that part of the city on the southern side.

They occupied also the towns of San Miniato, Ponte a Evara, San Romano and Angelica, and cleared the entire wooded area of Tenuta del Tombolo on the west coast.

Reconnaissance units entered Marina di Pisa at the mouth of the Arno, but found the town unoccupied and withdrawn.

East of Pisa, where the river forms an inverted U, some enemy strongpoints remained. The Germans launched a determined counterattack about two miles south of San Miniato, using a number of self-propelled guns, and there were numerous encounters along the south banks of the Arno in the Fifth Army cleanup of most enemy positions south of the river along the length of its right and central sectors.

Other Advances

The Germans continued to plumb shells into Livorno, and bombard Pontedera, four miles east of Cascina.

Forces from the Poggibonsi area made progress along Highway Two, occupying Tavernella and nearby Mount Morocco, and reaching the village of Strada, 12 miles from Florence.

In the upper Arno valley the Eighth Army made new gains north of the river, clearing Terranova of the enemy and reaching a point almost as far as Mount Marciano. Advances were slight in the Arezzo sector.

British troops advanced three miles in the upper Tiber valley after the capture of Civita di Castello, where 90 Germans were killed and the bodies of 30 more were found on a hill beyond.

Reports from France pictured Adolf Hitler's purge of rebellious Army officers as having spread to the fighting fronts in Germany, France and possibly Italy. These reports said eight eastern front commanders were arrested or ousted, and that gestapo agents had arrested and possibly executed German divisional leaders in France and seized Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, the German Army commander in Italy. One report said Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz of the Bourbaki sector in France had ordered his troops on Monday to prepare for emergencies, but that he later cancelled the order on learning the attempt on Hitler's life had failed. Blaskowitz since has been absent from his headquarters.

First he formed two large Vs by leaving cross-angle strips of grass grow long.

Then he accomplished a major lettering job. In letters 15 feet high he cut out the words "buy bonds" and let the surrounding grass go.

POLICE REDUCED

Harrisburg, July 22, (AP)—Faced with the loss of 477 men to the armed forces since the start of the war, State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelmi has eliminated police sub-stations at Quarryville, Lancaster county, Murrysville, Westmoreland county, Elizabeth, Allegheny county, and Broadheadsburg, Monroe county.

Of the attempt on Hitler's life, Churchill now is in Britain after a three-day tour of the Normandy front, gave the first official Allied word on the crisis in Germany. While visiting an RAF flying field in France yesterday, Churchill declared there were "grave signs of weakness" in Germany. He predicted the war "might come to an end earlier than we have a right to say."

Declaring the Germans were not happy on the fighting fronts, Churchill remarked:

"And now, suddenly boiling up in their stomachs, has come a deadly quarrel at home. It is not a nice thing for a man to hear of a revolution going on in his own country when he is being attacked."

Of the attempt on Hitler's life, Churchill said with a grim:

"They missed the old bounder (rough approximation) but there's time yet."

Generals Are Silent

Berlin was silent on the countermeasures taken against the German officers whom Hitler had planned to kill him. German uneasiness was underscored in these things that were left unsaid:

1. Not a single general on the eastern front, where the German army have been reeling back toward their own borders, has come forward personally to pledge loyalty to the Führer, though the Nazis claimed a blanket pledge.

2. With the exception of Col. Gen. Erich von dem Bach, former German General Staff Chief, the names of the plotters—the "Mad Generals" described by Reich Marshal Hermann Göring—still have not been announced.

3. Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, the most effective and probably the shrewdest of all Nazi orators, has not appeared once on the radio, nor has he been reported at any meetings with Hitler.

4. The first color printing was developed by Jacob Le Blon, a German man, in 1704.

5. The German army has not yet constituted an officer caste within the German Army.

TROOPSHIP IMAGINATION

Said the sailor to the soldier on the troopship outward bound:
"It is just imagination when you lose the meal you've downed.
It is just imagination when your cheeks begin to pale,
And it's just imagination that compels you to the rail."

Bear Show.—There was quite an excitement among the young folks on Thursday and Friday, by the appearance on our streets, of a huge brown bear, in charge of its owner, and at whose bidding the monster performed various antics, dancing, rolling over, making bows, etc. It seems to be well trained, very docile, and submissive to its master. The sport was keenly enjoyed by large crowds, who rewarded the showman with occasional pennies.

"Oh, it's just imagination," said the sailor boy to Joe.
"If you didn't think about it, to the rail you'd never go."

"Is it just imagination," said the soldier to the tar.

"All the boys of my battalion feeding gulls and fishes are?"

"Is it just imagination," said the soldier, turning green.

"That I've lost my recent dinner to the last and final bean?"

If it is, I want to tell you—do we get to shore or not?

Then this troopship must be carrying an imaginative lot."

Today's Talk

THE WILL TO GO ON
Within the being of every created thing that lives upon this earth is planted the will to go on, and the will to live.

The least hardy of the inhabitants of Nature, faced by storm, hunger, or catastrophe, still retain this will to go on, to hunt for food and to seek out self protection. It's us humans who lose our nerve, sulk, complain, and fail most to appreciate the mind and will which God has given us as a protection against the hazards of life.

Dependency upon someone else for your hardihood, upon the good graces of a government, or upon something that might "turn up," as Mr. Micawber continually asserted is against all the laws of Nature, and against yourself. Planted deep within the consciousness of every one of us is the will to go on—and that will was meant to be used.

Despair is both unnatural and cowardly. The free armies of the world keep gaining ground because they have within them the will to go on. They know their course is just, and that they fight for justice. Therefore they become undefeatable.

All life is combat. That is the first thing we learn. The child learns it because he was endowed with intelligence, and it is this intelligence that serves him well. Our forefathers only asked for a safe path to their church, their school, and to their place of work. Pioneers are not subsidized.

Opportunity lies fallow until you gain the will to grasp it, to make it your own, and to use it to develop that immortal soul of yours! God will give any of us plenty of incentive if we keep our eyes open, our hearts warm with hope, and our wills in a healthy state.

Said Thoreau: "There are two ways to victory—to strive bravely, or to yield. How much pain the last will save, we have not yet learned." Both history and the endless number of life stories, however, tell us of those who did strive bravely, and of those who did not yield.

The rapidity with which the Springs hotel was put up, rendered it impossible to provide immediately the accessories desirable and comprehended in the original design, such as bathing rooms, nine-pin alleys, etc. All of these will be provided. We understand that the managers are about to erect a large bathing house, with bathing tubs, plunge bath, and shower baths, to be supplied with water from the Katalysine Spring. In a few days the guests will have super-added to the other luxuries of the hotel, that bathing.

MEN UNDER 26 TO BE ADEQUATE

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Most selective service needs likely can be filled from the manpower pool under 26 years, the House Military Affairs Committee believes.

The committee reported it expects continuation of present draft induction and deferment policies. In a summary prepared for the group by Col. Francis V. Kessling, Jr., the national military manpower pool of registrants, aged 18 through 37, was placed at 22,212,600 as of July 1. About 10,251,000 of these were members or former members of the armed forces.

"Since the armed forces have already reached their authorized strength," Kessling said, "calls upon selective service are for maintaining this net strength. Contingent upon the progress of the war, there is reasonable expectancy that forthcoming calls can be met in a large part from registrants under 26, with a smaller number above this age."

Navy Secretary Roscoe mean-while estimated that an additional 19,000 enlisted men will be needed by the Navy before December 31 and another 129,000 may be required by next June 30. Most of the men will be obtained through selective service.

"We have moved faster than we had expected in the Pacific," For-estal commented.

MEN UNDER 26 TO BE ADEQUATE

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Most selective service needs likely can be filled from the manpower pool under 26 years, the House Military Affairs committee believes.

The committee reported it expects continuation of present draft induction and deferment policies. In a summary prepared for the group by Col. Francis V. Kessling, Jr., the national military manpower pool of registrants, aged 18 through 37, was placed at 22,212,000 as of July 1. About 10,251,000 of these were members of former members of the armed forces.

"Since the armed forces have already reached their authorized strength," Kessling said, "calls upon selective service are for maintaining this net strength. Contingent upon the progress of the war, there is reasonable expectancy that forthcoming calls can be met in a large part from registrants under 26, with a smaller number above this age."

Navy Secretary Forrestal meanwhile estimated that an additional 194,000 enlisted men will be needed by the Navy before December 31 and another 189,000 may be required by next June 30. Most of the men will be obtained through selective service.

"We have moved faster than we had expected in the Pacific," Forrestal commented.

Chapter 20
He was standing at the window, pretending to look out, his back toward Louise. Closing the door softly, she went over and put a hand on his arm. "What on earth has happened, Bobby?" she whispered, hoping Martha had heard nothing but feeling pretty sure she had. "You—you haven't been drinking, have you?"

"Oh, I got it back all right," announced Bobby. "It's back in the old cedar chest again. That's how come I got so messed up. Had a fight with the guys."

Martha stopped in her tracks. "But, Bobby, if you sold it, you had no right to take it back."

"Yes, I did, too," said Bobby stoutly. "It was in the agreement. But—but what's happened? If you're in trouble of some kind, maybe I could—"

"Maybe you could try minding your own damn business and keeping out of mine," he flared, turning now to face her. "Can't a fellow have any privacy around here? Maybe I don't want to tell you what's happened. And I haven't been drinking, if that's what's worrying you—but maybe that's none of your business either."

No, Bobby hadn't been drinking. Louise could see that now. "But, Bobby, you're hurt! Your suit's torn, and your face is all bleeding!" As she spoke Louise went over to the sink and began to wash out a cloth in a pan of warm water.

"Sit down over there on the cot, Bobby," she told him. "Let's get that face washed and find out the extent of the damages. Mother will throw fits if she sees you like this."

Awful! The Locofoco on Saturday actually put up a Folk-Hockey pole in this place. Look out, boys, for the neutral "Standard."

The meeting on Monday.—The Whigs of the Borough had another serious meeting on Monday night. The meeting was organized in the centre square, in front of Mr. McCosh's hotel (the portico of which was illuminated by a number of oil lamps, and decorated with the National Flag) by the appointment of Andrew Heintzelman, as president. Wm. McClellan and Samuel Cobean, vice presidents, and Nicholas Codori and S. R. Russell, secretaries.

G. C. Collins, of Washington, introduced my D. M. Smyser, Esq., president of the Clay Club, addressed the crowd for nearly two hours. Hon. James Cooper spoke briefly in response to the calls made by the 100 assembled Whigs.

Bear Show.—There was quite an excitement among the young folks on Thursday and Friday, by the appearance on our streets, of a huge brown bear, in charge of its owner, and at whose bidding the monster performed various antics, dancing, rolling over, making bows, etc. It seems to be well trained, very docile, and submissive to its master. The sport was keenly enjoyed by large crowds, who rewarded the showman with occasional pennies.

"Oh, it's just imagination," said the sailor to Joe.

"If you didn't think about it, to the rail you never—"

"Is it just imagination," said the soldier to the tir.

"All the boys of my battalion feeding gulls and fishes are?"

"Is it just imagination," said the soldier, turning green.

"That I've lost my recent dinner to the last and final bean?"

"If it is, I want to tell you—do we get to shore or not?"

Then this trooship must be carrying an imaginative lot."

Hail Storm.—The hail storm on Wednesday evening of last week covered about half a mile in width, the hail stones in some places being as large as hen's eggs. It swept over the farms of John Kempt, Calvin P. Krise, Abraham Krise, J. E. Plank, Hon. Edward McPherson, John Socks, John F. Currens, Henry S. Toot, Wm. Bigham, Joseph Witherspoon, and John Cunningham, in Cumberland and Freedom townships, doing more or less damage to oats and corn. Mr. McPherson had a fine field of Italian oats seriously damaged.

Today's Talk

THE WILL TO GO ON

Within the being of every created thing that lives upon this earth is planted the will to go on, and the will to live.

The least hardy of the inhabitants of Nature, faced by storm, hunger, or catastrophe, still retain this will to go on, to hunt for food and to seek out self protection. It's us humans who lose our nerve, sulk, complain, and fail most to appreciate the mind and will which God has given us as a protection against the hazards of life.

Dependency upon someone else for your hardihood, upon the good graces of a government, or upon something that might "turn up," as Mr. Micawber continually asserted is against all the laws of Nature, and against yourself. Planted deep within the consciousness of every one of us is the will to go on—and that will was meant to be used.

Despair is both unnatural and cowardly. The free armies of the world keep gaining ground because they have within them the will to go on. They know their course is just, and that they fight for justice. Therefore they become undefeatable.

The least hardy of the inhabitants of Nature, faced by storm, hunger, or catastrophe, still retain this will to go on, to hunt for food and to seek out self protection. NAZIS CONTROL GERMANY WITH "BLOOD BATHS"

By JAMES F. KING

London, July 24 (AP)—Heinrich

Himmler's prowling strong-arm gestapo squads today were reported carrying out one of the biggest purges in Hitler's blood-stained history seeking to hold down an internal upheaval which

Churchill called a revolution.

While German Army morale appeared badly shaken, there was no concrete evidence yet of any disaffection in the front lines. The Nazis clearly were still in firm control both of the Army and of Germany itself.

Adolf Hitler's purge of rebellious

Army officers as having spread to the fighting fronts in Germany,

France and possibly Italy. These reports said eight eastern front commanders were arrested or ousted, and that gestapo agents had arrested and possibly executed German divisional leaders in France and seized Field Marshal Albert

Kesselring, the German Army commander in Italy. One report said

Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz of the Bordeaux sector in France had ordered his troops on Monday to prepare for emergencies, but that he later cancelled the order on learning the attempt on Hitler's life had failed. Blaskowitz since has been absent from his headquarters, it was added.

HITLER AS "BOUNDER"

Then he accomplished a major lettering job. In letters 15 feet high he cut out the words "buy bonds" and let the surrounding grass grow long.

POLICE REDUCED

Harrisburg, July 22, (AP)—Faced with the loss of 477 men to the armed forces since the start of the war, State Police Commissioner C.

M. Wilhelm has eliminated police sub-stations at Quarryville, Lancaster county; Murrysville, Westmoreland county; Elizabeth, Allegheny county; and Broadheadsburg, Monroe county.

MEN UNDER 26 TO BE ADEQUATE

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Most selective service needs likely can be filled from the manpower pool under 26 years, the House Military Affairs committee believes.

The committee reported it expects continuation of present draft induction and deferment policies. In a summary prepared for the group by Col. Francis V. Kessling, Jr., the national military manpower pool of registrants, aged 18 through 27, was placed at 22,212,000 as of July 1. About 10,251,000 of these were members or former members of the armed forces.

"Since the armed forces have already reached their authorized strength," Kessling said, "calls upon selective service are for maintaining this net strength. Contingent upon the progress of the war, there is reasonable expectancy that forthcoming calls can be met in a large part from registrants under 26, with a smaller number above this age."

Navy Secretary Forrestal means estimated that an additional 194,000 enlisted men will be needed by the Navy before December 31 and another 189,000 may be required by next June 30. Most of the men will be obtained through selective service.

"We have moved faster than we had expected in the Pacific," Forrestal commented.

LOLLAR KINGPIN FOR ORIOLES

Baltimore, July 24 (AP)—Baltimore's high-flying Orioles, battling for their first International League pennant in 19 years, can thank a hard-working 18-year-old P. F. rookie Arkansas catcher for a lot of the stuff that is feathering the Birds' nest.

He is Sherm Lollar, one of the finest major league backstop prospects in the minors, and a youngster that many big time scouts are writing home about.

The Fayetteville, Ark., lad, who never played professional ball until he came here late in 1943 to catch 12 games with the Birds, almost single-handedly clinched Baltimore's double victory over Toronto yesterday when he rifled four line-drive home runs into the left field stands. He clouted two in each game, his final blast coming with two aboard in the nightcap.

Pittsburgh, July 24 (AP)—Frankie Wills of Washington, D. C., who has fought several of the Nation's first division welterweights and who holds a decision over Al "Sunny" Davis, will try tonight to halt the victory string of Bee Bee Wright, Clinton, Pa., high school boy, in a ten-round main event at Hickey Park.

League-leading Baltimore has played 90 games to date, and the kid has caught 81 doubleheaders and all, which is workhorse receiving in any league.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, July 24 (AP)—Television is one of the fastest-growing of all post-war industries, with a peace-time potential audience comprising half the population of the United States, is in prospect, a spokesman of the radio industry says.

James H. Carmine, Philco vice president, declared: "After television standards have been set by the Federal Communications commission, every major city in the U. S. will have a television station just as quickly as transmitter deliveries can be made after the war."

Carmine thought table model receivers would be available as low as $125, with projection type sets with larger screens running up to $100.

OLLAR KINGPIN FOR ORIOLES

Baltimore, July 24 (AP)—Baltimore's high-flying Orioles, battling for their first International league pennant in 19 years, can thank a hard-working 19-year-old 4-F rookie Arkansas catcher for a lot of the stuff that is feathering the Birds' nest.

He is Sherm Lollar, one of the finest major league backstop prospects in the minors, and a youngster that many big time scouts are writing home about.

The Fayetteville, Ark., lad, who never played professional ball until he came here late in 1943 to catch 12 games with the Birds, almost single-handedly clinched Baltimore's double victory over Toronto yesterday when he rified four line-drive home runs into the left field stands. He clouted two in each game, his final blast coming with two aboard in the nightcap.

But Lollar's value isn't so much in stickwork—his average is only about .245—as in steady, dependable work behind the plate.

League-leading Baltimore has played 90 games to date, and the kid has caught 81 doubleheaders in any league.

Laurels Stretch Lead In Eastern

(By The Associated Press)

Hartford Laurels stretched their Eastern league lead to eight games yesterday, defeating the Wilkes-Barre Barons twice, 8 to 4 and 3 to 2, while the second place Albany Senators lost two to the tall-end Scranton Red Sox, 6 to 2 and 11 to 4.

The Laurels had to go 10 innings to win a scheduled seven-inning nightcap, after winning the opener behind Pete Nektenis steady hurling.

The Utica Blue Sox copped a pair from the Elmira Pioneers, 7 to 4 and 4 to 0, the Binghamton Triplets stopped the Williamsport Grays 3 to 2 and 10 to 3. Utica's double win gave the club 12 victories in the last 14 starts.

Pittsburgh, July 24 (AP)—Frankie Wills of Washington, D. C., who has fought several of the Nation's first division welterweights and who holds a decision over Al (Bunny) Davis, will try tonight to halt the victory string of Bee Bee Wright, Clifton, Pa., high school boy, in a ten-round main event at Hickey Park.

Wellins trounced the Erie Sailors 10-6 after overcoming a two-run lead which Erie gained in the first inning. Neither team scored a tally after the sixth.

and all, which is workhorse receiving in any league.
